WORK PROGRESSING ON THREE MAJOR DEVELOPMENTS ON INNER HARBOR

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Yea, verily, spring has come, tra la! tra la!

First proof of it occurred last night when everyone in the office started to clean out his desk.

Isn't it funny what a lot of useless junk one can acquire in the space of a year?

One generally stores away the most useless stuff in the world and throws away everything that he can use later.

Life's like that.

We suggest that the city of El Cerrito hire an animal trainer for that wild street roller of theirs. One of these days the thing is going to get ideas in its head.

Why is it that nine out of ten European authors believe that all Americans have a trace of Indian blood in their veins?

Maybe it is because some of these Americans with a sense of humor (?) tell visitors from abroad of the pure Indian blood that runs in their veins. Probably the story never even saw an Indian outside of the movies.

It's tough to have to work on nice, warm nights like these when one could spend one's time lying upon some cool lawn staring at the skies.

But then again, think of these poor boozers who have to work during the daytime while the night workers are swimming or taking a rest.

Have you ever donned your shirt in a hurry at night and found that you've forgotten to unbutton the cuffs. And do you do the same thing—tear off the buttons?

Well, election time will soon be here.

Drew To Head Oakland Police

OAKLAND, March 27.—John T. Drew was sworn in today as chief of police of Oakland, replacing Chief Donald Marshall.

Within 15 minutes of his appointment, Drew named Lieut. Edward Brock as head of the morals squad and a cleanup campaign was mapped.

Commissioner W. H. Parker, under indictment of alleged bribery, was the only councilman to cast a dissenting vote against Marshall's ouster.

Mikulich's car was overturned by the crash. Riding with him was Nick Fozich, of Richmond. Both cars were badly damaged.

80 HELD IN SOLITARY CELLS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Mar. 26.—(UP)—Old "Jeff City Pen" bristled like a fortress gripped by mutiny tonight while militiamen, guards and police patrolled its ramparts shielding a host of angry convicts.

It harbored hungry, bruised and malcontent inmates in cell blocks around a courtyard swept by a violent clash between armed guards and a rebellious rabble today, climaxing 36 hours of mutiny.

Flood lights swept the court. A small army, its sentries posted with machine guns and grenades in commanding points overlooking the square, stood ready for any additional emergency.

80 Suspects
Warden Leslie Rudolph announced late today he believed the leaders of the unrest were among the 80 convicts held in solitary confinement in cells down near the river's waterline. He said he expected no further trouble.

Warden Randolph said leaders told him they had planned to set the chair and twine factories on fire. They intended this as a protest of the administration rather than as a means of escape, he reported them as saying.

A dozen convicts, some suffering skull fractures, broken jaws and severe body bruises, were in the prison hospital, the most serious casualties in the open break between guards and 750 convicts who rebelled in the lower mess hall this noon, wrecking the structure.

Hundreds of others nursed minor hurts and joined in a general dim of cursing, screaming, and protest, as they paced their cells.

The men were injured in a riot which occurred at the noon mess and which followed mutinies in (Continued on Page 5)

INDUSTRIAL GROUP MEETS

A luncheon was held in the Palace hotel yesterday by the Richmond Industrial Commission, at which time many matters affecting the future of Richmond were taken up and discussed.

About 20 members were present, made up principally of Richmond people. Harry Ellis, the president of the commission presided.

Advertising Richmond in such a way that it would be far reaching was discussed thoroughly, and many suggestions offered, but no definite action taken at the meeting.

A committee from the commission will meet with the publicity committee of the chamber of commerce, and all phases of the subject, will then be gone into, and a line of action agreed upon.

Mystery Malady Fatal To Youth

The boy was rushed to the Martinez hospital where an operation was resorted to, to open the bones, and draw away the poison. The operation, however, was useless, and the boy passed away last night.

FITTS WINS FIGHT WITH JUDGE

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 27.—(UP)—District Attorney Buron Fitts won his fight to obtain a new judge to try the cases of six men accused of jury bribery conspiracy during the original Julian petroleum corporation trials when the bribery cases were removed from the calendar of Superior Judge Marshall McCombs late today.

The change was made at the request of Judge McCombs after two days in which Fitts charged repeatedly that the jurist was prejudiced against Jacob Berman, one of the bribery defendants.

Fitts has indicated that he will ask dismissal of the bribery indictment against Berman in return for testimony concerning the Julian stock overissue which the financial expert has promised to give before the county grand jury.

Superior Judge Walton J. Wood, who had refused to change his appointment of Judge McCombs, reassigned the case. He named Judge Emmet H. Wilson to hear the trial, starting April 21.

Fitts had claimed that as long as Judge McCombs was to hear the bribery cases Berman would not testify before the grand jury. (Continued on Page 8)

JOHNSON WILL TO BE FOUGHT

ORANGE, March 27.—Otto Johnson, of Richmond, today filed contest against the will of his deceased wife, Hilda A. Johnson formerly of Richmond, charging that his wife was unduly influenced by a niece, Esther Baier, of Orange, who was named sole heir by Mrs. Johnson.

The suit was filed in the Orange county superior court by Clifford C. Anglin, Richmond attorney.

In his action, Johnson contends that the will was executed while his wife was under the influence of drugs two hours before she died; that she did not know what she had signed and that the will was not drawn up and executed according to law.

Mrs. Johnson died several weeks ago at the county hospital. She named her niece, Mrs. Baier, sole heir to her estate of $20,000 in a will which was said to have been drawn up two hours before she died.

The name of every inhabitant of Richmond should be recorded on the government population sheets before April 15, Dinkelspiel said.

NEW CLUE IN DEATH OF BEAUTY

EUREKA, March 27.—UP—In the verdant undergrowth of scenic redwood forests north of here deputy sheriffs tramped late today returning to the place where the body of a beautiful young woman was found in hopes of solving her mysterious murder.

Charles Tracy, construction worker, had appeared before authorities earlier in the day with information to indicate there had been another victim and the other body might be found near the redwood log under which the body of the young, Titian-haired woman was hidden.

The woman had not been identified. Names of two women whose whereabouts were unknown had been given officials but these persons have sent word they are living in southern California.

Tracy told of hearing six shots on a night about six weeks ago. The coroner had determined death had occurred from six to eight weeks before the woman's body was found Monday night.

The construction worker said there were three in rapid succession and seemed to have been fired at a point about two miles from the redwood log. A short time later there were three more shots, Tracy said.

Leather on the woman's shoes had been scratched by gravel as if she had been carried a long distance along the highway. Officials, therefore, formed a theory that an angry husband or lover of the woman killed her and an unwelcome escort at the same time, hiding both bodies several miles apart. Deputy Sheriff G. E. Townsend and his aides were prepared to make a search of several days in the vicinity.

FORD OFFICIALS WILL MAKE ANNOUNCEMENT OF PLANS NEXT WEEK

By Frank B. Schumann

Richmond inner harbor development is advancing by leaps and bounds this week with one announcement crowding close on the heels of another.

New developments yesterday included the calling of bids for the dredging of Ellis slough channel and a turning basin, and statements that the development of the Berkeley Waterfront company will be of larger proportions than was at first announced.

I. B. Groves, San Francisco manager for the Ford company told the RECORD-HERALD last night that R. B. Brown, chief construction engineer of the Ford Motor company was not in the bay region this week and probably would not be until next week. At the same time he stated that:

Interesting Announcement

"WE WILL HAVE AN INTERESTING ANNOUNCEMENT TO MAKE NEXT WEEK."

This can mean but one thing and is the word that Richmond has been waiting for since the RECORD-HERALD first announced exclusively years ago that the Ford plant would be established here.

NEW HOPES FOR PACT

LONDON, March 27.—UP—A series of important developments radically altered the course of the five-power naval conference today and led to renewal of hope for a five-power treaty. The developments were:

Appointment of British and French experts to examine the possibility of a pact which would give France a necessary feeling of security without increasing Britain's military obligations.

An indication in French sources that France might be willing to reduce her naval claims in return for a form of pact which implied no military commitments.

A French indication that Foreign Minister Aristide Briand has in mind a mutual guarantee pact much broader than a Mediterranean agreement. Other European nations would be permitted to join this pact and Briand hopes the United States could approve of it.

Briand's expressed intention to remain here in view of the developments of the pact idea, instead of returning to Paris Tuesday as he had planned.

A French spokesman plainly indicated that the Paris delegates attributed the new turn of events to the altered attitude of the United States and Great Britain toward a political pact.

"It is largely due to the American announcement," he said, referring to the statement of two nights ago that the United States would consider entering a consultative agreement which would not mortgage the American fleet to protect France in case of war.

The second development on the waterfront is the calling of bids yesterday by E. A. Hoffman, engineer for the dredging of the Ellis slough channel and a turning basin. These sealed bids are to be submitted not later than noon April 16, and the contract will be awarded immediately thereafter.

The work will be paid for directly by the property owners. The successful bidder will draw up private contracts with each property owner who will pay for his portion of the work. The bid, however, will be done in the unit.

Proctor Gamble Out
All of the property owners with the exception of the Proctor and Gamble company will take part in the work. The project has been held up for several months while negotiations were going on with the soap company to have them participate in the work. This, however, has not been successful and the work will be done without the Proctor and Gamble people participating.

As a result, the channel in front of the Proctor and Gamble company's property will be 200 feet wide instead of 300 feet.

Under the new project the channel will be 300 feet wide for a distance of 2100 feet from the present inner harbor basin, then 200 feet wide for 900 feet in front of the soap company's property and then will widen to 600 feet for a distance of 1000 feet to form a turning basin at Canal street. The channel will have a depth of 31 feet.

Cost $300,000

More than 1,500,000 cubic yards of mud will be dredged from the channel and dumped upon adjacent property to bring it up to a grade of eight feet above water. It is estimated that 1,450,000 cubic yards of material will be needed to make the fill. Several hundred acres of industrial lands will be reclaimed (Continued on Page 8)

Ultimatum to My Wife on a Pertinent Occasion

What e'en though at times we quarrel?
What e'en though at times we fight?
What e'en though at times I hurt you?
Don't I love you, too—all right?

Don't I miss you in my absence,
Of my loneliness complain?
So what though at times we quarrel?
I do love you—love, NOT "feign"!

Who e'er heard of such perfection—
Lovers living in warless peace?
They're not lovers, sweet, I swear you—
And they're bored beyond release!

Fighting shows Love's on the job, dear;
Calm abstention, Love's defeat.
Therefore, those that never battle
Know of Love but Love's RETREAT!

So let's fight, sweet love, and quarrel,
Wreck and break our every dish.
Storm and rage—but kiss thereafter—
Never for warless peace let's wish!

"1 in 4 Women of State Work!"

EVERY little while, when an intelligent woman sees a newspaper headline, she SEES RED—

Such a headline, for example, as the one which we have quoted above this piece.

And which was NOT taken from The Evening World—

Such a headline, with its slighting and lying implication, that

THREE out of four "Women of State" LOAF!

The newspaper story, beneath the quoted headline, went on to explain that "one out of every four women in New York State is employed"

"At work other than household duties"—

But the still huge majority of women who ARE employed at household duties

Get so darned tired of the bland assumption that only the one out of four, who works at something else,

REALLY WORKS!

Told old, insulting, chiefly male assumption that the woman at home "lives around all day doing nothing"

Will be even emphasized once more by the fact that

When he takes the 1930 census, next month, in the "occupation" column of the enumerators' blank,

The entry to designate the woman doing housework in her own home, and having no other employment, will be "NONE."

To be sure, Leon Truesdell, chief statistician for population, explains to the Pathfinder

That somewhere in the family relationship column

"The designation for homemakers will be entered."

This is more than ever happened to them before.

And they perhaps should be grateful for such small mercies!

Nevertheless, the most devoted homemaker knows that hers is an important and difficult job—

Not merely a "family relationship." And she wonders why she cannot be formally recognized and listed.

As a job-holder and WORKER!

Most other sensible working women so recognized.

And if any one of the thousands, now celebrating National Business Women's Week, really imagines

That she works harder than the conventional housewife and mother of small children—

We would just like to arrange a temporary transfer of jobs.

And to watch the private secretary trying

To wash the dishes, fix the baby's orange juice, get a four-year-old ready for kindergarten, prepare lunch, pick up the house, do the daily laundry, answer the telephone and do a longest hours, now performed by any woman.

And is work which adds much to human efficiency and happiness.

The homemakers themselves are not complaining, or trying to shirk—

Most of them are not only devoted to their work but cheerful about it.

Yet a little more public appreciation of their efforts would certainly not hurt them any—

Along with a little less of this talk about the woman

Who "doesn't work"—she's just a wife and mother living at home!

TO—

Say that I am beautiful.
Say you find me sweet.
Say you'd lay the world and all Gladly at my feet.

It need not be the truth, my dear—
At least, this bold request.

Is but for the sweet words of love Though spoken in a jest.

I will not make a show of it,
Nor hold you very long.

I only need the glow of it To animate a song—

A song of lovely cadences,
A song for you to sing.

A song for me to blossom by And know another spring.

And if by chance, by very chance My song should find its way

Into your inmost heart of hearts— My dear, what would you say?

GERTRUDE WEIL.

Home Economics Vs. Home Cooking

According to the Federal Bureau of Home Economics, the food served at college tables to students is good and meets their needs, but the dormitory demand on roast chicken and chocolate cake from home remains unabated.

ONE WAY OF LOVE

From "The Dark Journey" by Julian Green

When one person falls in love with another, he abandons all his liberty forever; passion may take altogether, but at the bottom of his heart there remains something inalienable which he can give but never take back. The man who is in love has sold his soul, and he can never succeed in supplanting his love, one belongs to those one has loved until death.

Oh, Go to Bed

AD, why do I always have to go to bed so early?

"Because you ask so many foolish questions."

"If I don't ask any questions, can I sit in later to-night?"

"Yes, now go and play."

"Why should I play?"

"To amuse yourself."

"Why should I amuse myself?"

"Why should you amuse me, answering my questions?"

"Oh, go to bed."

Modernizing the Home

By Alma Zais

REPEATING THE STURDY DIGNITY OF THE OLD OAK TABLE AND DESK, A COURT CUPBOARD OF THIS TYPE WOULD PROVE A CHARMING PIECE FOR THE ENTRANCE HALL.

Dear Miss Zais:

I have followed for a long time your advice to housewives on matters of home decoration. I wonder if you would favor me with suggestions for furnishing and decorating the living room of the apartment into which I plan to move in the course of the next month.

It is 16x15 feet, with doorways and windows as indicated on the accompanying sketch. In both instances the doorways lead to small porches. I do not expect to have any bookcases in the living room.

The walls of the room are smooth finish, cream colored, with side lights and ceiling chandelier of heavy metal, rather good-looking. The window, slightly off center, has the radiator beneath it, is four feet in width, and has small panes of glass, 6x9 inches in size.

If it is possible we wish to use an oak extension living-dining room table, which when closed measures 4 1/2 feet—open, 4 1/2 feet square (extension is on the side), and a carved oak desk—both of the antique or Stuart oak finish. Perhaps with the table we will use one oak bench with a cotton pad, either with or without a back.

These are what we wish to use as a nucleus, and we would appreciate your advice on the type of living room furniture which would harmonize best with such sturdy pieces. What pieces should we have—what styles—what fabrics? What style draperies for the doorways and windows, and of what material? What color and kind of floor covering would be best? Should we use heavy, sturdy lamps? We are trying to create something different which will be very homey and livable.

We are somewhat limited as to the amount which we can spend, but, if necessary to secure the proper furniture and decorations for the room, we can go up to $1,000.

Completing the Old English Scheme

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

ONE of the saddest home-furnishing stories told is that oft-repeated one concerning the woman who possesses a few good pieces of furniture which she feels she must use but which she is unwilling to accept as the keynote of her room. Grudgingly she places the old pieces in their respective positions, then turns her back on them—from this point on choosing new furnishings that come nearer to her ent which will be very homey and livable. The new sofa should be of the soft overstuffed type which is upholstered almost to the floor; it could be covered with either wool damask or a very inexpensive but effective material which has a suede-like finish and is sunfast. A good cotton velvet would also be a practical choice. If the rug is red, the sofa may be in soft dull green; if beige carpeting is used, the sofa may be red.

The wing chair by the window may be covered in red and gold brocade (green and tan brocade if the sofa is red), and the chair to the left of the sofa may be slip-covered in linen, the same as that used for the over-curtains.

Beside the long oak table, which has been placed at right angles to the window, it would be good to have a rather formal oak chair with a high back fluted with little cane panels, and a seat pad of green velvet. Behind the table we have indicated a wall hanging of antique damask or brocade which may be in red and gold or green and gold. Mrs. D's idea for a backless bench is splendid and the color of its cushion may repeat that of the sofa.

Two occasional tables are indicated beside the sofa—the one to be a rather high octagonal table of the single pedestal type; the other, a low oak stool which may be used as a coffee table. For the entrance wall it would be charming to have a copy of an old carved court cupboard with a small formal chair at either side. If desired, the books, which we have denied a place in the foyer, could be kept inside the cupboard—much as were the important documents and books which this old English piece was originally designed to hold.

The large oak desk fits nicely against the wall to the left of the entrance. It would be most impressive to have a fine old portrait for the wall space above the desk, but, lacking that, a decorative architectural painting or a good color reproduction of one would be quite effective. It is possible to find architectural prints that look like fine old primitives—and they are extremely reasonable in price. There should be another dignified and color-take, however, for she has accepted her heavy desk and table in good faith; she has studied their individualities and has the good judgment to know that although her room is not large, a very homelike and interesting scheme can be developed around these strong characters.

Mrs. D's letter should be read again by those who have made home-furnishing mistakes of the nature quoted. Note how intelligently she approaches her problem; how keenly she appreciates the fact that one (or two) important pieces of furniture set the character of a room and call for consistent co-operation along the lines laid down by them.

In solving Mrs. D's problem we shall begin with the little foyer, in which we should like to see one dominant old English piece against the wall facing the entrance. This might be a carved oak chest or a handsome old oak cotter with a piece of red and gold brocade on the wall above it, and perhaps a mirror might be hung in the center of the brocade. Mrs. D. suggests building bookshelves at either side of the entrance to the living room, but this is not a logical place for books, and we hope the idea will not be carried out.

The diagram shows a plan of arrangement which should work out very well for the living room. As a foundation for the color scheme we have in mind an all-over carpet, or room-size rug in a lovely old pinky-rose shade, which, by the way, cannot be found in the inexpensive quality. If the budget will not allow for the better grade of carpeting, then a beige rug will do.

At the large leaded window there may be glass curtains of inexpensive pongee that is but a trifle heavier than voile; over-curtains to be of cotton or linen having a sturdy Jacobean design in which there are rich reds and greens.

The new sofa should be of the soft overstuffed type which is upholstered almost to the floor; it could be covered with either wool damask or a very inexpensive but effective material which has a suede-like finish and is sunfast. A good cotton velvet would also be a practical choice. If the rug is red, the sofa may be in soft dull green; if beige carpeting is used, the sofa may be red.

The wing chair by the window may be covered in red and gold brocade (green and tan brocade if the sofa is red), and the chair to the left of the sofa may be slip-covered in linen, the same as that used for the over-curtains.

Beside the long oak table, which has been placed at right angles to the window, it would be good to have a rather formal oak chair with a high back fluted with little cane panels, and a seat pad of green velvet. Behind the table we have indicated a wall hanging of antique damask or brocade which may be in red and gold or green and gold. Two occasional tables are indicated beside the sofa—the one to be a rather high octagonal table of the single pedestal type; the other, a low oak stool which may be used as a coffee table. For the entrance wall it would be charming to have a copy of an old carved court cupboard with a small formal chair at either side. If desired, the books, which we have denied a place in the foyer, could be kept inside the cupboard—much as were the important documents and books which this old English piece was originally designed to hold.

The large oak desk fits nicely against the wall to the left of the entrance. It would be most impressive to have a fine old portrait for the wall space above the desk, but, lacking that, a decorative architectural painting or a good color reproduction of one would be quite effective. It is possible to find architectural prints that look like fine old primitives—and they are extremely reasonable in price. There should be another dignified and color-

ONE OF THE DIGGERS IN THIS COURSE IS SHOOTING GOOD GOLF—NATURALLY WAVY OR "HOPELESSLY" STRAIGHT, ALL HAIR SHOULD BE "SET," MEANING MOILED OR TUSSED WITH, AFTER EACH SHAMPOO. NO, NOT THAT IT HAS A SINGLE THING TO DO WITH THE HEALTH OF THE HAIR.

But, one must do it. It does to its appearance!

The Beauty Shop told once here is a somewhat whimsical way of a little girl with straight hair, with per-severance, a reliable hair waving fluid and ten clever fingers, and now she models those lank uninteresting locks into a chic coiffure. But it must have been too whimsical in the telling, for several people thought the tale a fairy tale.

This time we shall leave nothing to the imagination. We shall content ourselves with no less than specific directions.

The secret, dear ye, of a successful finger wave lies not so much in skilled fingers as in the wave fluid itself. You know, there are thin sticky fluids designed for the purpose and thick sticky ones and pomades. In Paris some of the most engaging effects are achieved by the use of toilet water on the hair.

Oily heads are advised to use the latter or the thin and sticky fluids. Dry heads will react best to the somewhat sticky fluids and the pomades.

For the rest, one uses either combs—two locked together to fashion a wave—or a special narrow contrivance which is slipped under a strand of hair and fastened and removed after a period of half an hour or longer, or one works with the "edges" of the hands thus:

A "fold" of hair is caught between the sides of the hands and the hands brought together and held that way for a few seconds. Another such fold is made below or above the first one, depending on how many waves you desire and how far apart or close together you fancy them.

The hair is smuggled into a net cap and left to dry.

Another way to wave without the aid of combs or other contrivances is to pinch some of the hair together between the first and second fingers—having previously moistened the hair with a wave lotion of course—using the fingers scissors fashion. Later the wave can be coaxed by pushing it between the edges of the hands.

To the lady who has never had a professional finger wave, all this possibly may sound like just so much Greek so to her we suggest a trip to a reliable hairdressing establishment and a close watch of the operations.

And then between professional waves she can do her own and so keep her hair looking beautifully groomed always.

New Inventions

Mounted on two wheels and pushed by hand, a German inventor's street sweeping device is featured by a revolving broom.

By getting thin sheets of aluminum with material resembling that used in making rayon a German has developed dress goods for women as light as silk, waterproof and heat-reflecting.

A device has been patented that uses the waste heat from the smoke pipe of a heating plant to vaporize a spray of water to keep the air in rooms of a building at the right degree of humidity.

THE WAR IS ON, BOYS

ONE THOUSAND drys, assembled in Boston, cheered and yelled "Yes" when an Anti-Saloon League worker asked them if they were willing to go to war for Prohibition. We'll be getting that civil war any day now.

LEXINGTON, Mass.—Paul Revere, ardent dry, rode through here shortly after midnight, arousing the countryside. "The bootleggers are coming!" was his cry. He said they were coming with a fleet of trucks. The farmers of Lexington and Concord immediately spread tracks on the highway.

WASHINGTON (Official)—Fort Sumter was fired on to-day and 118 barrels taken.

NEWARK, N. J.—Four regiments of Anti-Saloon League workers surrounded Newark to-day and declared a siege. A quick surrender is expected, as Newark has only enough ginger ale to last four or five days. The inhabitants have been reduced to rations of needed beer.

RICHMOND, Va.—Patrick Henry, noted wet leader, to-night declared, "Give me whiskey or give me breath."

He got service on both orders.

CHICAGO (Bulletin)—Chicago has seceded from the Union to conduct a beer war of its own.

VALLEY FORGE, Pa.—The Wet Army, encamped here, is broke. The soldiers are being paid off in gin labels. They threaten mutiny unless supplies from the Philadelphia breweries break through the enemy lines soon.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—The Battle of Lookout Mountain was fought to-day. Forty-one stills were captured. The largest of these will be sent to Westerville, O., and set up as a war trophy in the public square.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

THE more I see of life the more I am convinced that the strongest force in human existence is HABIT.

Wealth is a habit. Eating is a habit and eating too much is a very bad habit.

Poverty is not only a disease, but also a very bad habit.

Now is an excellent time to make a list of your good and bad habits—no one can do this except yourself.

WASHINGTON—Clarence F. Wilson was named General of the Dry Army of the United States to-day. He has pitched his tent on the White House lawn.

BOSTON—The Boston Massacre occurred to-day. Twenty-one cases of whiskey were cut.

NEW YORK—The Literary Digest straw ballots have been seized by Dry soldiers as seditious literature.

WASHINGTON—Gen. Ulysses Grant was read out of the United States Army to-day on old charges that he drank rum in 1864. A move is on foot by the Dry Army to elect him from his tomb in New York.

NEW YORK—This city has already felt the effects of the war. Room service has fallen down completely.

CONCORD, N. Y.—Benjamin Arnold, a dry leader, was seized here to-night as a spy. His suitcase was leaking.

BOSTON—The Frigate Constitution sailed out of the Navy Yard to-day with all eighteen amendments flapping in the breeze.

NEW YORK—Three thousand bellhops joined the colors to-day, signing up with the Wet Army in the cork-screw corps.

NEW ORLEANS—The Battle of New Orleans ended to-day with the Dry Army capturing 5,000 barrels of molasses destined to be made into rum.

TRENTON, N. J.—The Wet Army crossed the Delaware to-night with nineteen truckloads.

A DISH A DAY

By Nancy Dorris

During the week breakfast can hardly be the leisurely meal that the family would like. Well cooked food, delightfully served, becomes one of the pleasantest Sunday morning experiences.

Variety in the Sabbath breakfast is possible without undue effort on the part of the breakfast maker. Advance planning and centering the thought upon the main course result in quickly prepared and balanced breakfasts, often one of the two meals of the day.

To the morning appetite crisp garden relishes are more agreeable. Choice bits of lettuce or romaine, watercress sprigs, tiny green onions, rosy radishes and green pepper shreds or carrot fingers not only garnish the plates attractively but serve as an excess for those fresh raw vegetables in the diet.

Hearty enough to please the hungry and yet not too hearty for those disinclined to the table is this menu:

SUNDAY BREAKFAST

Strawberries or melon.
Cooked cereal with cream milk.
Shirred eggs and bacon.
Broiled tomatoes.
Jam.
Popovers.
Coffee.

Bakery muffins or gems may substitute for the popovers, which are a homemade bread. The broiled tomatoes shirred eggs and bacon and popovers make up the main course, and the breakfast is built around it. The oven does for the three—tomatoes, eggs and bacon and popovers.

One or two eggs, a slice of bacon and one medium tomato comprise an individual serving; the cook knows the capacity of each member of the family. No egg dish is simpler than shirred eggs. The ramekins are greased with butter and one or two eggs broken in; a tablespoon of cream is poured over the egg and the ramekin set in a pan of hot water and the pan in the moderate oven for six to eight minutes. A strip of bacon placed over the egg during the baking adds flavor and food value. Season the egg at serving time.

The tomato halves broil while the bakery muffins are heating in a paper bag or during the last stage of the baking of the popovers. Slice the washed but unpeeled tomatoes in halves and dip in flour seasoned with salt, pepper and a bit of sugar. Lay on the rack of the broiler pan, or pan fry until brown on all sides, about three to five minutes.

VOICE ADDING WARMTH TO PICTURES

Mary Nolan, the girl who created a sensation on the silent screen because of her marvelous beauty, now is winning even greater acclaim in the talkies.

In her first starring all talkie role, the animated characterization of Cassie Cook in Universal's "Shanghai Lady," which comes to the Fox-California theater tomorrow, the screen's most exotic beauty proves that the appeal of her voice is no less than that of her lovely features.

"I am very enthusiastic indeed about making all talking pictures," says Miss Nolan, "because they enable a player to give the public so much more of one's personality—the voice adds an intimacy, a warmth, which never could be present in a silent picture."

Miss Nolan believes that the addition of sound to the screen enables an audience still more accurately to judge the appeal of a star's personality, since the talkie screen offers the one thing which hitherto in silent pictures has always been hidden. A voice, she believes, is sometimes even more magnetic than a mere image ever could be.

Although the talking screen has added immeasurably to the effort required of any player, Miss Nolan is convinced that every player in the screen welcomes the opportunity to give to the public as much of themselves as is possible.

"Of course," she says, "we now have to learn complete lines of lengthy parts, which means that a great deal of the time which previously was spent in leisure or recreation must be spent in study," she says. "For instance, in 'Shanghai Lady,' I speak many thousands of words, all of which have to be learned verbatim before they can be spoken for the screen."

KIDDIE SHOWS AT FOX WIN SUCCESS

The "Whoopie" matinees at the Fox-California theater are attracting large crowds of young children each Saturday, according to A. W. Brady, manager of the theater.

Brady declared that there are six reasons why the matinees are meeting with such success. They are, he said:

Feature pictures carefully selected for their suitability to the child's mind.

Added attractions such as cartoons and talking comedies that appeal to the children and group singing of popular songs by the children have proven a success.

Many mothers prefer sending their children to the show during the afternoon, thus lessening their desire to see an evening performance and later wander about the streets unchaperoned.

Every child attending the show receives a bar of candy.

Birthday clubs are being organized to keep interest alive in the activities of the theater and the community.

The junior matinee has gained its success primarily because it is a "kid's party" where conventions of the evening shows are cast aside to give the children an opportunity to have a good time in their own way, Brady said.

Announcing Another P. G. and E. Electric Rate Reduction

$2,400,000.00 Saving to Consumers

Now, electric rates for consumers of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company are reduced over Two Million, Four Hundred Thousand Dollars a year.

Lighting rates are cut to a maximum rate of 4½ cents per kilowatt hour for incorporated areas, with a similar reduction in all areas.

The new rates are of greatest benefit to the small consumer—the residence user, stores and offices. Substantial reductions have been made in commercial, industrial and agricultural power rates. Street lighting rates are reduced.

Domestic combination rates for consumers using lighting service and in addition having electric appliances for heating and/or cooking, are as low as 1½ cents per kilowatt hour. The new commercial lighting schedules provide for lighting rates as low as 2 cents per kilowatt hour.

These new schedules providing lower electric rates are designed to encourage liberal usage of electricity at low cost. The new rates are among the lowest obtainable anywhere.

ELECTRICITY IS CHEAPER—YOU CAN USE MORE—MAKE IT YOUR SERVANT

Let electricity brighten the gloomy corners. Let it do the cooking, ironing, washing. Let it sweep the floors, operate the electric fan, drive away chills. It will percolate the coffee, make the toast, keep food warm or cool and wholesome.

Modern electric appliances bring comfort, convenience and economy.

3 BRONX SISTERS PROOVE GOOD SINGERS

The Bronx Sisters, three versatile singers, are among the many entertainers in the Radio Pictures' musical classic, "Hit the Deck," now showing at the Fox-California theater. This musical romance is adapted from the Vincent Youmans musical comedy of the same name.

Directed by Luther Reed with Polly Walker, sweetheart of the New York stage, and Jack Oakie, film comic, in the principal roles, "Hit the Deck" promises more entertainment than any other talking picture made.

Exotic technicolor scenes with beautiful girls and jaunty sailors, and the immense battleship set with its huge guns are but a few of the interesting portions of this picture.

The Bronx Sisters, favorites of the "Follies" and George Whites' "Scandals," sing the ever popular "Nothing Could Be Sweeter" in "Hit the Deck."

TROOPS GUARD PRISON IN REVOLT

The pants, shirt and chair factories. To 900 rebellious workers in the shops, had thrown down their tools and had shouted and screamed "Better food, less work and better bosses!" Guards aided by national guardsmen, quelled the men and marched them across the courtyard to the cell houses, while officials prepared for a "general revolt" forecast by a trusty. He said it was set for noon when thousands of the prisoners are fed.
The striking shop workers had been prodded into their cells and the courtyard was cleared for the long lines of fellow prisoners who, still peaceful, but sullen, moved into the mess hall at the "zero hour."
Suddenly 750 men in the lower mess hall broke into a violent demonstration. Warden Rudolph ordered his men to "go in and bring them out."

Felons Stamped
The convicts stamped. They hurled dishes, utensils and furniture through windows, crashing the panes, and emerged through the battered frames to meet the guards.

The courtyard and mess hall became a scene of confusion. Guards tossed tear gas into the hall. Other guards struck down the most violent with clubs. In fifteen minutes the convicts were subdued.

Leaders were placed in "dungeon" cells of the punishment house. All inmates were locked up and all shops were closed down.

Warden Rudolph addressed the prisoners in the mess hall tonight.
He told them that "twenty years ago when I came to the penitentiary it was a prison." He said in the last few years it had become a "playhouse" and added that "from now on this place will be run like a prison and not like a Sunday school class."

ART GOEBEL ON TEST FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—Winging his way by easy stages across America, stopping at more than a dozen important airports to gather information to fliers, Col. Arthur C. Goebel, world-famous aviator, is now enroute from here to New York and New England in his tiny gold-winged biplane, "Apache."

The solo flight winner and transcontinentalist who has set so many air marks with the Richfield-Richlube combination in his ships, is making this unhurried cross-country flight especially to obtain information regarding aviation activities.
His plane, a small two-place Waco, was especially designed for the trip with the front seat of the cockpit cowled in for baggage. In explanation of "Apache" Colonel Goebel said he so named the ship in order that it might be "an advertisement for the west."

Ninety days in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving, was the punishment meted out to Mrs. Christina Fritzler Mendoza who was at the wheel of the machine that took the life of W. L. Seawright recently.

Turn this package over and read the back

THE WORDS on the back of the package still mean what they say. No "extras," which do not contribute to the quality of the smoke, are included in the price of Camels. Just the utmost smoke-enjoyment that modern science can put into a cigarette.

That statement was on the first package of Camels manufactured and has been on every one of the billions of Camel packages sold from that day to this. When it was first written, other cigarette manufacturers were giving away flags, pictures of actresses, pictures of ball players—almost anything that would make the smoker think he was getting something extra for his money. The makers of Camels believed the smoker wanted a cigarette sold strictly on its merits, with all of its cost put into quality—a cigarette made of such excellent tobaccos—so perfectly blended—so mellow—so fragrant—that it would win its own way.

The vast popularity of Camels is a tribute to that four-square policy.

CAMELS

Don't look for premiums or coupons, as the cost of the tobaccos blended in CAMEL Cigarettes prohibits the use of them.

An impromptu meet among members of both the Richmond Union High school varsity and B track teams yesterday on the local high school track showed great promise for R. U. H. S. in their first year in the Alameda County Athletic league.

HIGH BASEBALL NINES PLAY TODAY

The Richmond union high varsity and B baseball squads will see action today on out-of-town diamonds. The local varsity will clash with Hayward high school on the Hayward diamond at four o'clock this afternoon.

The Richmond B team will tangle with the Crockett nine in Crockett in order to break a 3 to 3 tie played by the two schools recently.

Today's varsity contest will be a regular Alameda Athletic league game, and both teams are expected to stage a strong battle because of this fact. The Richmond boys are determined to break the streak of bad luck that has followed them during the three games played this season.

Lemon and Bono will probably do the mound work for the local varsity today, while either Rosano or Bell will be behind the plate for Richmond. The other varsity athletes who will be on today's Richmond high lineup are: Emerie Baxter, first; Viano, second; Rollino or Stoddard, short stop; Degnan, third; Transue, full'erat and Rogers, outfielders.

The purpose of today's B game at Crockett is to break the 3 to 3 tie of a former contest. Either Corrazzo or DeCorteen will occupy the box for the local B team today, while "Hack" Miller will do the receiving for the Richmond aggregation.

The Alameda high school varsity nine is scheduled to clash with the Richmond high school varsity Tuesday on the local high school diamond.

Next Friday afternoon the Centerville baseball outfit will tangle with the Richmond varsity on the Richmond high school lot.

The Berkeley school for the Deaf will send its varsity nine to Richmond next Wednesday to meet the local high school B team.

12 DEATHS LAID TO CHICAGO BLIZZARD

CHICAGO, March 27.—UP—The Midwest's greatest snowstorm was a $10,000,000 memory tonight while some 40,000 men cleared away great drifts and the storm itself swirled on toward the Atlantic seaboard.

Transportation, virtually at a standstill for two days, returned to normal in Chicago when a warm sun aided swarms of men in removing a 19 inch snowfall which established an all time record for the north central portion of the United States.

The Chicago surface lines estimated that loss of revenue and expense of chipping snow from its hundreds of miles of trucks would amount to $5,000,000. Cost to the city of Chicago in hiring several thousand men and hundreds of trucks to carry away the drifts was placed at $100,000. Railroads expended several hundred thousand dollars for similar work. A survey indicated the snow removal expenses in other cities in the affected area and along the completely blocked highway would bring the grand total cost of the storm to well over the $10,000,000 figure.

Deaths attributed to the snow, which lasted continuously for 45 hours, were placed at 42. Nine occurred in Chicago. Traffic accidents accounted for some three score injuries.

The weather bureau posted fair and warmer predictions and indicated unofficially that spring at last was about to arrive in reality one week late.

SYNOPSIS
Upon reaching a white settlement in New Guinea, David Wade awakes from a prolonged sleep in the settlement's only hotel, to find Stella Blackney, daughter of the diplomat, facing him. She tells him that she had him brought to the hotel from the beach where he lay in a drunken stupor and informs him that he had been robbed of his savings while on the beach. She hints openly that O'Shane, the storekeeper, of whom he obtained his liquor, is the man who robbed him.

"I was robbed the other night on the beach in front of your store," he said evenly, and, after a slight pause, asked with great directness: "Do you know anything about it?"

"And what should I be knowing about it?" The big man asked it with a laugh, but a laugh that was in his voice rather than in his eyes. "A whole lot perhaps." O'Shane's brow came down in a pretended frown.

"Sure, and you're not hintin' it was me that robbed you, are ye? For shame on ye, young man! A respectable storekeepin' man like

"I was robbed the other night. . . . Do you know anything about it?"

"It's the drink that's talkin'—he dead drink. Away with ye, and 'ober yourself."

He laid a hand on Wade's shoulder to push him aside. At the touch, Wade's anger swept up. The touch was a threat, also a suggestion of dominance and mastery. Wade rebelled at the suggestion of dominance. His self-control left nothing to be desired in the matter of directness, and adding vituperative declaration of what would happen if the money were not immediately restored.

"And now out of me way, my boy! It's Stella I've come to see. Little known by Wade Stella! Not a drunken varmint."

And he swept Wade effortlessly aside and strode towards the doorway.

"Stella?" Wade called after him. "I advise you to keep away from Stella."

O'Shane stopped abruptly, and with astonishing agility and lightness swung round. His apparent good-humor was gone. The round black eyes were flaring, and more out-thrust than ever was his jaw. His great body was hunched as for a spring. His voice came harshly, savagely, charged with threat—not mere expression of threat, but the thing itself.

"Now-what-the-devil-do-you-mean-by-that?"

Wade tensed his muscles in readiness. "She was round there the other night," he said.

"Yes?" It was a hiss rather than a word.

"And perhaps she saw something."

"No—no—it was a mistake," came Stella's voice.

She had appeared in the doorway behind O'Shane. On her face was an expression as of a great fear.

"You misunderstood me," she added, and raised a swift finger to her lips in injunction to silence.

"But—" Wade began, and got no further, for O'Shane had turned to the girl, and she was addressing him.

"Don't take any notice of him," she was saying. "He has lost some money, and is trying to bluff you. It's all a mistake."

The big man regarded her steadily and took a step towards her. She returned his gaze unflinchingly.

"Of course it's a mistake if you say so, Stella no dear," he said, and his tone was soft and vibrant and tender. He put out a hand as though to draw her to him.

But Stella shrank back, putting her hands up and out as though to guard herself from a blow. The expression on her face was a mingling of terror and aversion, but as she had averted her head O'Shane did not see it, and it seemed to Wade that she had not wanted him to see it. Then she went back through the doorway, rumpling at most. O'Shane made to follow, then stopped, and after a moment's hesitation went along the veranda to the bar.

Wade watched him disappear, and then sat down on a canvas chair and took out his pipe. It was all very confusing and mysterious, he thought; the girl's peculiar concern for him, her contradicting of herself, and all the rest of it, seemed to have neither continuity nor reason.

Only two things stood out with any clearness. One was that Stella Blackney feared O'Shane. The other was that O'Shane was in love with Stella. But neither of these things was in any way illuminating.

CHAPTER II

And then she made a further contradiction, for during the afternoon she came to him again—came with a half-smiling, nervous step, and about her manner more than a hint of furtiveness, which that the expression in her eyes was of decision rather than of fear—and said:

"He did take it. I am sure now."

He looked at her peculiarly, and claimed; but before he could proceed to specific question and

Can You Beat It!

3 PROJECTS ON WATERFRONT PROGRESS

through the project.

The estimated cost of the dredging fillings and bulkheading is $300,000.

Those interested in the project are the Santa Fe Land company; San Francisco Bridge company; Duncanson and Hargreaves; Richmond Navigation and Improvement company; Richmond Investment company; Enterprise Foundry company and A. Banzoff.

Berkeley Waterfront Co.
It was also revealed yesterday that the dredging program of the Berkeley Waterfront company on the inner harbor is to be greater than was at first revealed. The type of construction is to be of the best available and will make the cost of construction considerably more than was at first estimated.

It has been revealed that Healy-Tibbets and the Daniels Construction company have been making testborings at the site of the retaining wall of the huge project.

The retaining wall on the 5020 feet along the inner harbor, instead of being constructed of the usual type of material will be made up of waste quarry rock fill and rip rap rock on the outside.

The bulkheads on the eastern side of the property will be of creosoted timber and will extend for a distance of approximately 1300 feet.

400 Foot Channel

The channel to a length of approximately 7200 feet will be dredged 400 feet wide and 18 feet deep. The type of construction of the retaining wall indicates, however, that as soon as the fill to be pumped in from the 18 foot project has had time to settle, additional dredging will be done and the land filled to a higher level and the channel dredged to 30 feet. A total of 2,100,000 cubic yards of dirt will be removed from the channel and placed on an area of tidelands covering approximately 241 acres.

Although the estimate of the cost of this work was set at $700,000 when announcement of the work was first made it is generally conceded now that the cost of construction will go far beyond that figure.

All of the land on the inner harbor from the Ford factory site to the California Cap company works is owned by the Berkeley waterfront company with the exception of 10 acres tract on the north.

New Land Bought

Records in the office of the county recorder reveal that during the last month much additional land has been acquired in the section by representatives of the company. Most of these property transfers have been made in the name of Blaine F. Shuman, attorney for the company.

Although the ownership of the company has been in doubt for many years, it is generally believed that it is owned by some large railroad company which is planning a major development on the inner harbor within the next few years.

The section to be filled in under the present project is a triangular piece, having a width next to the California Cap company plant of approximately 1300 feet. It gradually increases in width until it joins the Ford and Parr properties where it reaches a total width of 2250 feet.

Fitts Wins Fight With Julian Judge

In a previous case, Judge McComb refused to dismiss an indictment against Berman.

Through the testimony of Berman, Fitts hopes to obtain the indictment of at least ten prominent men. No one ever has been convicted for the Julian crash. Berman, his brother, Louis, S. C. Lewis, Julian president and others were acquitted. It was in that trial that the alleged bribery occurred.

Change Hit
Those indicted in this connection last week were the Bermans, Lewis, Louis Krause, private detective, and Frank B. Grier and John Groves, jurors.

A few minutes after Judge Wilson had been appointed, S. S. Hahn, attorney for Krause, appeared in Judge Wood's court and objected to the new appointment. He said that "if Berman can change a judge so can we," and served notice that he would protest Judge Wilson's appointment when the trial opens.

After Judge Wilson was named to hear the bribery trials, Berman went before the grand jury with Fitts and numerous deputies.

Threat Made

In a courtroom, where Julian stockholders are attempting to recover $12,000,000 from brokers who handled the stock before the company crashed, the former president, S. C. Lewis, testified that had he known Berman was going to Paris after the failure he would never have allowed him to leave alive.

"Berman would never have left the city alive if I had known he was planning to go," Lewis said dramatically when asked if he had known the "bright boy" was fleeing. "He didn't tell me anything about it. I wanted him here."

Pupils Prepare For School Play

Members of the stagecraft and art classes at Richmond union high school are industriously preparing stage settings and costumes for dramatic productions to be presented by the Richmond high school Student Body this semester. Masks are being modeled by Dorothy Boswell and Cecil Bowman, advanced art pupils, for the variety show to be presented in May. Clay models are first made. Paper mache models are then formed. Among the masks are a dog's head and a futuristic face.

Stage settings and costumes are also being prepared by the stagecraft class for the school play, "Daddies," to be presented April 11. The class is directed by Ber-nice Whiting of the faculty. The pupils who are working on the stage settings are Harry Tezli, Theodore Kapan, Thomas Ryan, Frank Avilla and Juanita Cole.
